Deer Management Survey To Address Citizen Concerns

During June and July, the County Executive Office will be surveying by mail approximately 5,000 residents throughout the County to help staff identify additional ways to address citizen concerns regarding deer/human conflicts. Areas of the County to receive this survey have been selected based upon their proximity to parkland, other large open areas, and streamvalley corridors. Approximately 450 residents will be surveyed in each district. Three hundred residents will be surveyed as part of a pilot to test the survey questions and format. Prior to the distribution of the survey, homeowner associations will be notified. Information to be solicited through this survey includes:

- Number of years in current residence
- Frequency of time spent outside of home gardening, walking, etc.

- Frequency of seeing deer in area
- Opinions regarding the presence of deer and trends in the number of deer seen
- Experience with deer on property
- Concern about deer damage to property and the environment
- Involvement in a deer/vehicle collision in the County
- Familiarity with the County's deer management program

Residents who receive this survey are encouraged to complete and return as soon as possible to the Office of the County Executive, 12000 Government Center Parkway, Suite 552, Fairfax, VA 22035. Survey forms will also be available at the Fairfax Fair, June 9-11, 2000. ■

2000 Exceptional Design Award Nominations Due June 21

June 21 is the deadline to submit nominations for the 2000 Exceptional Design Awards Program, which recognizes exceptional architectural and site designs in Fairfax County.

The Fairfax County Department of Planning and Zoning, with assistance from the Fairfax County Architectural Review Board and the Planning Commission, designed the program to promote the County's commitment to the pursuit of exceptional design in new developments and to encourage design professionals, builders and developers to enhance the County's living and working environments.

Any architect, landscape architect, urban designer, land use planner, builder, developer, or owner in the public or private sector may compete, provided the project is located in Fairfax County. The 2000 awards program is open to any project completed since January 1, 1990.

Anyone who resides in or has a place of business in Fairfax County may nominate a project. Awards for exceptional design will be considered for projects in (but not limited to) any of the following categories:

- Residential, single-family detached
- Residential, townhouse
- Residential, multifamily
- Residential, planned community
- Commercial, retail
- Commercial, office
- Industrial, general

- Industrial, research and development office
- Institutional
- Recreational
- Historical
- Adaptive reuse
- Mixed use development
- Energy efficiency in site and building design
- Affordable housing development

All entries must be submitted in an 8 1/2" x 11" binder. All materials submitted, including photographs and drawings, become the property of Fairfax County with rights to publish.

Honor, Merit and Honorable Mention Awards will be presented in as many cases as the jurors believe are merited. Nominations will be judged without regard to project authorship (names of nominees will not be disclosed to the judges). The Review Committee is composed of individuals from the Northern Virginia Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, Potomac Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects, Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, Fairfax County History Commission, Northern Virginia Section of the American Planning Association, Engineers and Surveyors Institute and Fairfax County Architectural Review Board.

Fairfax County Releases February Economic Index

Fairfax County released its monthly Coincident and Leading Indices for February in its April issue of Fairfax County Economic Index. A coincident index assesses current economic conditions, while a leading index signals what the economic climate will be like in 9 to 12 months. The following are highlights of the report.

County Economy Showing Early Signs of Slower Future Growth

The County's Coincident Index, which represents the current state of the County's economy, decreased to 125.8 in February, down 1.0 percent. It should be noted that February's decline is substantially overstated by a data-reporting problem involving retail sales tax receipts. Despite declines in December and February, the Index continues to track a strong positive trend, gaining 4.4 percent over the February 1999 to February 2000 period. In February, the entire decrease in the Index was attributed to the decline in retail sales tax receipts.

- Sales Tax collections, adjusted for inflation and seasonal variation, were down sharply from January; while
- Consumer confidence increased after dropping in January;
- Transient Occupancy Tax collections, adjusted for inflation and seasonal variation, were up for a seventh consecutive month; and
- Total employment rose for a third month in a row and for the ninth time in 12 months.

The Fairfax County Leading Index, which is designed to forecast the County's economy 9 to 12 months in advance, declined to 106.9, for a 0.7 percent loss. This is the second consecutive monthly decline in the Leading Index and the fourth decrease in six months. However, the Index continues to trend upward gaining 0.44 percent over the past 12 months. In February, three of its five components contributed to the Index's decline.

- Consumer expectations (consumer confidence six months hence) fell slightly from their peak value established in January;
- Residential building permits dropped for a second month; and

- Initial claims for unemployment insurance increased (worsened) after having improved over the four previous months; while
- New automobile registrations increased, reversing a downward trend dating from September; and
- The total value of residential building permits increased slightly in spite of a decrease in the number of permits issued.

For further information, call the Department of Management and Budget, 703-324-2391. The Index is available on the County's web site at www.co.fairfax.va.us/comm/economic/economic.htm.
